GIRLS JUST WANT TO HAVE FUN!

Dear Student,

Homecoming week is here, filled with a variety of activities, sports, and the all important Queen and King election. Spirit will reign throughout this week; from the pie-eating contest on Tuesday afternoon, to Wednesday night's bonfire, to that climactic moment when the Queen and King are crowned on Saturday night at the Annual Ball.

None of these activities however, will have any meaning without a high degree of student participation. Please, come out and feel the spirit, and partake in these great, once a year festivities. A complete schedule of events is listed below.

Sincerely,

James Levey, Public Relations
Student Government Assoc.

To the Editor

Today in our society, deviancy is treated as an illness. Psychologists and our legal system are purging our society of a life blood which allows the community to change and grow as well as break up the monotony of day-to-day existence for the conformers. These members of our society not having fully developed morality, good or evil, are afraid of the threat of change posed by deviants. These conformists are analogous to extras in a movie who fade in and out of the scene, and never make a difference in the plot or stand out in the crowd.

These amoral conformists are comforted in the knowledge that there are institutions in which deviants and criminals are locked away and "rehabilitated". Rehabilitation is a process by which the deviant is reconditioned to get along better in society; (through imprisonment, psychological therapy, drugs, and a series of other "1984" methods). In actuality, the deviant is depressed into a dull life within a society where he/she will not make waves or draw attention. Quite often brilliant people are condemned as "insane". Artists, inventors, and pioneers are locked up for going too far, being too creative, or just to be kept quiet.

In the interest of society, immorality should be purged from the population, which is how our rehabilitative system presently operates. But there is a grey area between moral and immoral. A hero to one person is a villain to another. A terrorist to some is a martyr to others. In the interest of mankind, then, any form of morality, good or evil, should be allowed to exist, and it is the existence of the amoral which should be examined.

NOVA COLLEGE ANNOUNCES ITS FIRST FIELD STUDY IN LATIN AMERICAN AND CARIBBEAN STUDIES

SOC 485 - Field Study in Latin American & Caribbean Studies will be offered Term 5 (May 7-July 2)

The course will consist of on-campus seminars and study and a 3-week program of total immersion in the language and life of Chalchihuites, a small rural town in the foothills of the Sierra Madre Occidental in the state of Zacatecas, Mexico. Students will live with local families while attending innovative language and culture classes and participating in a voluntary work program which is integrated into the daily life of the town. An optional travel week is possible for students interested in extending their stay in Mexico.

Students will be awarded 9 credits for the course, applicable toward the Certificate in Latin American & Caribbean Studies. Tuition will include all on-campus instruction, roundtrip air fare to Mexico, room and board with an appropriate family, language instruction, seminars and excursions. The optional travel week and incidental expenses are additional.

Enrollment in SOC 485 is limited to ten (10) students. Although language proficiency is not a requirement for the program, preference will be given to students enrolled in SOC 250, Native Cultures of the Americas - Term 4.

Interested students are encouraged to contact Dr. Brodman, Parker 217, as soon as possible.

Public Relations company seeking outgoing, energetic, ambitious students for part-time promoting of special events and parties. High earnings, flexible hours. Call 565-1569 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. for appointment.

DADE COUNTY CELEBRATES "WOMEN'S HISTORY WEEK"
MARCH 4-10, 1984

"Women keep America going" is the theme for celebrations of Women's History Week, according to Fran Bohnsack-Lee, representative of the Community Coalition for Women's History Week. A number of organizations and educational institutions will hold events and special exhibits to commemorate the week, March 4-10, 1984. The coalition of women's organizations is coordinating the Dade County Celebration by encouraging participation and reporting events through a community calendar. Bohnsack-Lee would like to see a similar venture in Broward County.

BACKGROUND

Women's History Week is always celebrated during the week which contains March 8th, International Women's Day. The week long observance in the United States originated in 1978 in Santa Rosa, California, conducted by the Santa Rosa Commission on the Status of Women. The idea was so compelling that in a very brief period of time, the week received attention from historical societies, State Departments of Education, national organizations and periodicals for educators and the general public. A national lobby effort ensued, and in 1981, the annual observance of Women's History Week was proclaimed by the United States Senate.

According to Dr. Gerda Lerner, President of the Association of American Historians, in her inspirational book, The Majority Finds Its Past: Placing Women in History: "Women...have shaped history through community-building. While men conquered territory and built institutions which managed and distributed power, women transmitted culture to the young and built the social network and infra-structures that provide continuity in the community..."

Any students who might be interested in developing a project for Women's History Week should see Ms. Bohnsack-Lee in Room 236 as soon as possible. This week provides an excellent opportunity to heighten public awareness of the importance of Women's History Week as well as Nova's commitment to egalitarian ideals. Please contact Fran Bohnsack-Lee at 475-7479 (office) or 1-665-3710 (home)

BLESSED EVENT AT THE UNIVERSITY SCHOOL - Each of the sixty-five second graders at The University School incubated and hatched a baby chick as a contribution to the school's annual Science Fair, held February 2nd and 3rd. Although a few of the chicks had hatched earlier, most of the sixty-five hatched during a two-day period when the tots could watch. By the time all of the chicks had hatched, the excitement in that classroom should have been electric. Teacher Lynn Nehman has our admiration for her stamina and fortitude!

NEW DEDICATION - Dr. Marilyn Segal announced the dedication, on February 2nd, of the new David Traum Room in the Family Center. It became a dual celebration when one of the students in the Super Marks program, David Hudson, was presented with the Super Marks Student of the Year award for the remarkable progress he had made in his reading achievement scores from pre-primer to second grade level in the six months he had been in the program. The David Traum Room was named in memory of the husband of Mrs. Sadie Traum, who donated the money that furnished the room.

NEW DIRECTIONS - Within one month, Dr. Pat Distasio, director of Nova University at Coral Springs, has been elected to the boards of directors for both Women in Distress of Broward County, Inc. and the South Florida Mental Health Professionals Association. Congratulations, Pat!

NEW GOALS - Mike Richmond, assistant dean at Nova University's Law Center, has been elected as president of the Nova University Senate-Forum for 1984. This makes Mike chairperson of the Council of Committees as well, which is the council of chairpersons for Nova committees throughout the University. Congratulations to you, too, Mike!

NEW WAVE - The Center for Science and Engineering announced the initiation of a new program that is being called "Cooperative Education." A grant from the U.S. Department of Education is funding the new program which will permit students who enroll in the center's computer and engineering majors to alternate their academic terms with terms of actual hands-on work in operating businesses in these fields for credit and for pay. The program, which is now accepting students for the next term, will soon be expanded to include additional majors. For more information, call Dr. Anna Mae Burke, extension 7650.
